Went on leave from 5/24-6/4

Jenna called 6/3 to tell me she finished and didn't find any issues. She never contacted me after 5/23 until she completed on 6/3. There were zero follow up questions from anything I sent her on 5/20-5/22.

June 3-10 below — clear to me Jenna didn't look into most of the stuff I sent her.

Also if you still haven't read it, I implore you to read the 2020 feedback I gave Dan about Dave. Again, I asked Dan a few months ago about it and what's he's done to follow up. Dan told me he read it but thought it "wasn't actionable" and that I was just "hot & cold" about Dave (essentially, "emotional").

I literally mentioned gender discrimination and sexism in the feedback, multiple times.

Heads up in case you want to follow up on this at all before we talk — I just had my first 1:1 with Dave after being out.

Dave made it clear he doesn't think he did anything wrong at all, related to managing me or his interactions with me. He also said he didn't get any coaching.

He definitely steering the conversation to insinuate that I was making baseless claims. He did encourage me to escalate issues to ER whenever I think I need too — but then again, mentioned that the focus is now just on me changing myself so I can continue to do my job.

I was clear with him that the concerns raised were about gender discrimination, sexism, and hostile work env — and that I think he and Dan have perpetrated those things. I also told him I expected, based on my convo with you last week, there would be changes to his behavior based on the "coaching" you mentioned, but he said none of that happened. I told him I'm very concerned.

I also asked him about Stewart 1 & safety (that I don't feel it's safe to return to that building) — but he said if EHS said it's safe, I have to come back. I told him again my concerns about EHS and the history of the building, and the lack of testing. After asking him numerous times, he finally agreed to ask Helen if there's another building I can work in.

I asked him if we can request that I fully work remotely and he said "that's not a thing." I told him it is, it's even on the remote FAQs, and that I might meet the rare exception because my job doesn't actually require me to be on site at all. He fought it a bunch but then after I asked a bunch of times he said he'd ask Helen about that too.

He seemed very unhappy about the last two weeks and our call today. I'm expecting my work relations with him to now get even more unpleasant.

Hi Ashley,

I'd like to set up time for us to discuss a few of these concerns, and options you have to address them. I'll put some time on the calendar to meet again later this week.

Hi Jenna,

It was good to hear that based on the concerns I raised and the evidence I provided, that there was employee coaching provided to Dan West, David Powers, and some of the men on the MSQ Mgmt team (you didn't provide names). It was also good to hear that employee coaching will be provided ongoing for Dave and Dan related to my concerns. I also appreciate you offering to look into any future issues related to this that rise to retaliation against me or violations of company policy.

As mentioned on the phone call today, and documenting here, I do disagree with some of the findings. I do feel like some of the issues should have been considered violations of policy. I also feel like some issues were not properly investigated (including my 2020 feedback about Dave that I sent to Dan, of which you had no memory today of one of the most egregious statements). I also feel like the investigation into Rob Yopez's behavior towards me was closed prematurely — as he told me some very specific things that would have been independently verifiable (i.e. he told me he chartered a private plane in Santorini to fly out himself and a woman he was cheating on his wife with after missing their planned flight, etc. — how else would I know that if he wasn't talking to me about how he cheats on his wife). However, I understand that you said the investigation is closed and you will not talk to me about any of these specific issues going forward.

Similarly, I don't feel like my concerns about workplace safety in Stewart 1 (aka the TRW Microwave Superfund site) were adequately investigated (no testing) or resolved (EHS & y'all also said you wouldn't answer any more of my questions about that either).

As you directed, I'll plan to return to work virtually on Monday with the status quo of my role and reporting structure, and no changes to my role, responsibilities, relationship with Dave or Dan, or anything else. As you directed, I'll reach out to Helen once "I've had time to process this" and work with her to help me figure out a "path forward." As mentioned, I'm not sure what Helen would do or what that means.

I raised my ongoing concerns about workplace safety with Dave and Dan before this two weeks off and I'll continue to work with them to identify a way I can "return to work" in September without having to put my health at risk. I also hope EHS will go forward with testing the indoor air in my office, despite their last statement that they might not now (despite years of indoor air vapor intrusion above max EPA industrial limits, and the latest tests showing Ethylbenzene and Toluene above max EPA industrial limits), and no explanation provided by EHS why they'd decide not to do the testing after previously saying they would do it — other than me pointing out gaps and open questions about the history of the building and Apple's oversight of it). I'm also talking to the Federal EPA about this concurrently.

Thanks again for the two weeks off.

Hi Ashley,

Thank you for raising your concerns and for your cooperation in this investigation. As we discussed, Apple takes employee concerns seriously and I have completed a thorough investigation. As part of my process, I reviewed the information and documentation you provided me. I also spoke to others who had information relevant to the investigation.

Though I could not confirm that violation of Apple policies occurred, Apple has taken appropriate action to address the findings of the investigation.

If, in the future, you have any new concerns and/or experience behavior you feel is retaliatory, please contact your Helen or myself immediately.

Best,

Jenna Waibel
